Growth Mindset

Define fixed mindset.

People with a fixed mindset assume everyone has a restrictive aptitude. They also have a specific personality and a certain moral character. Creative abilities and intelligence are static. People with a fixed mindset wonder. --- "Will I look smart?" "Will I succeed?" Due to this, they avoid difficult tasks that might show limitations. A person with a fixed mindset avoids tasks that seem challenging. The thinking is if a person avoids difficult tasks, the person won't make mistakes. People with a fixed mindset feel the need to prove themselves over and over again.

Define growth mindset.

A growth mindset is based on the idea that basic qualities can improve with effort. Even though all people are different, everyone can grow through practice and experience. Challenges help people with a growth mindset become stronger. They like to try new things. Persons with a growth mindset see failure as an opportunity to grow. Feedback is a good thing. They welcome input from others. Individuals believe their talent will develop by using good strategies. They are inspired by the success of others. _

Mindset

Mindset is a particular way of thinking : a person's attitude or set of opinions about something.

I just can't do this.

I'm going to practice until I get it right.

My work is fine just the way it is.

What can I do to make this even better?
Is this my best work?

It's too hard. I give up.

I can do this with more time and effort.
Let me try a different strategy.

I made a mistake.

Mistakes will help me learn.

My friends can do this; why can't I?

I'm going to learn from my friends.

I like being told that I am smart.

I like being told that I work hard.
