Instructions

Preparation

Students will work in partners, so you will need to print one "Communication Board" plus the requests slips for every two students.

Cut the strips apart.

Activity

1. One student will randomly draw a request slip from the stack.
2. The student will read the strip without showing his/her partner
3. The student will then try to make the request using only the "Communication Board" with no verbal instructions.

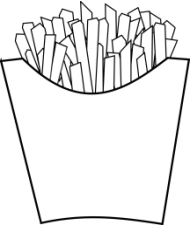

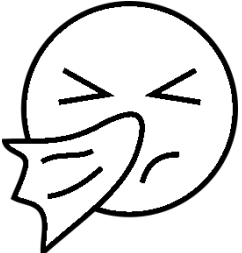

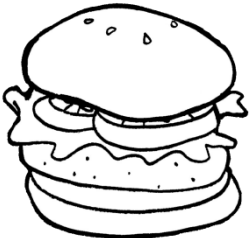

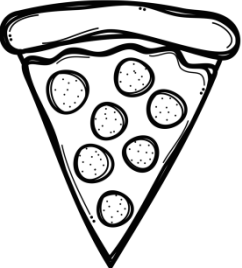

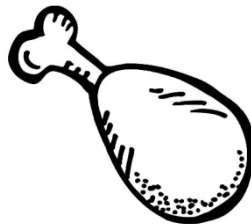

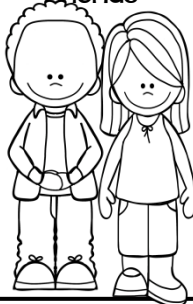

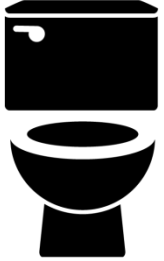

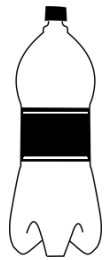

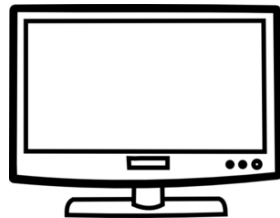

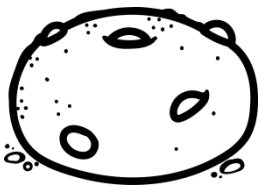

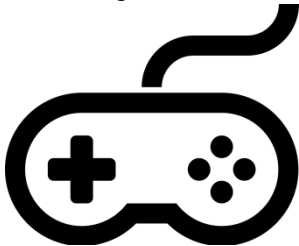

This can be made into a game by having giving one point of each attempt until the partner figures out the request. The partner with the fewest requests is the winner.

Discussion:

Which questions were the most difficult?

How did you feel when you couldn't make your partner understand your request?

I need Mom to take me to the bathroom.	I want to watch cartoons on television.
I want two cookies and chocolate milk.	I want to listen to my favorite audiobook.
Can Dad pick up pizza on the way home from work?	I want orange juice, eggs, and toast for breakfast.
I want to go to McDonalds with my friends.	I need a cough drop.
I want water before I go to bed.	I want to go to bed at 9:00.
I want to play video games with my sister.	Turn the television off.
